Acompetent knowledge of the Koran is indispensable as an introduction to the study of Arabic literature, yet practical difficulties in it abound. Nor is it to be expected that all the transcendent excellencies and miraculous beauties to be discovered in the Koran should immediately unveil themselves to the seeker

This work has therefore been compiled with the intention of its proving of service to the beginner in mastering some inevitable difficulties, and also to the more advanced Arabist in resolving some problems. Thus it provides a clue of elucidation to the more intricate passages of the Koran; it is also an indispensable aid to Koranic studies.

PREFACE.

THAT a competent knowledge of the Kor-ân is indispensable as an introduction to the study of Arabic literature will be admitted by all who have advanced beyond the rudiments of the language. From the purity of its style and elegance of its diction it has come to be considered as the standard of Arabic even by those who have no belief in its pretensions to a divine origin, while so great is its authority among the followers of Moḥammad, that it would be difficult to name a work by any Mussulman writer which does not abound in allusions to its precepts or in quotations from its pages.

It is not to be expected that all the transcendant excellencies and miraculous beauties discovered in the Kor-ân by its commentators and others should immediately unveil themselves to our cold and unsympathizing gaze; beauties there are, many and great; ideas highly poetical are clothed in rich and appropriate language, which not unfrequently rises to a sublimity far beyond the reach of any translation; but it is unfortunately the case that many of those graces which present themselves to the admiration of the finished scholar are but so many stumbling-blocks in the way of the beginner; the marvellous conciseness which adds so greatly to the force and energy of its expressions cannot fail to perplex him, while the frequent use of the ellipse leaves in his mind a feeling of vagueness not altogether out of character in a work of its oracular and soi-disant prophetic nature.

It has been the privilege of the Kor-an rather to impose its own laws upon grammar than to accept them from other sources; and as it was written originally without vowel points, it is not surprising that a good deal of difficulty has been experienced in framing rules to meet the various readings that have thence crept in.

The following pages have been compiled in the hope that they may prove of service to the beginner in mastering some of the difficulties to which I have referred; they will be found to contain much, which to the more advanced student may appear trivial or unnecessary, but which will not be without value if it lighten the labours of those for whose use the book is principally designed; it has no claim to originality, it merely presents to the reader in a succinct form that which the writer has culled for his benefit from the works of others.

The edition of the Kor-an which I have chosen for my text is that by Fluegel, printed at Leipzig in 1834; the Concordance by the same author has been my sheet-anchor throughout. Each word will be found under its verbal root; where none exists it must be looked for in its alphabetical place; so also in the case of words which have seemed likely to puzzle the beginner; many of these have been separately arranged in their alphabetical order, but withdrawn a little within the marginal line; thus for example the word کَیْتُة may be looked for either under ن or under its root 1. The vowel of the agrist has been given where it is known: I have generally added the original meaning, and where such meaning is not to be found in the Kor-an the words are printed in Italics. I must here claim indulgence for the fault-if fault it be-of having given the English of the infinitive instead of the third person singular of the preterite, or grammatical root of the verb; it seems more convenient and less roundabout to say that فَرُبُ means to strike, although no one would be likely to commence the study of the Kor-an without being fully aware that the word should in strictness be rendered "He struck"; while upon this point I may observe that although there is no true infinitive in Arabic, the abstract noun or noun of action frequently supplies its place; the letters n.a. merely refer to the forms of the different nouns of action, not necessarily to their meaning; this also applies to the participles, written part. act. and pass.; these names have been retained for convenience sake, and mark the form only of the verbal adjectives, which, being constantly employed as substantives, are generally so rendered.

It is hardly necessary that I should offer any apology to my readers for the frequent references I have made to De Sacy's Grammaire Arabe; the study of the French language is now so universal, as almost to render a translation superfluous; the letters D. S. Gr. etc. refer to the second edition.

I have not, as a rule, thought it necessary to notice the various readings of disputed passages, nor the numerous interpretations of the same passage which abound in the Commentaries; those who may wish to extend their researches in this direction will find an ample field in the works of the two great authorities El Beidàwëe and Ez-Zamakhsharëe; the Commentary of the former, as being the more grammatical, is the one I have generally consulted. Free use has been made of the Dictionaries of Freytag and Johnson, principally the former; to them, as well as to Sale's well-known translation, my acknowledgments are especially due.

From the many careful revisions the work has undergone, both previously, and also in passing through the press, I have good grounds for hoping that but few typographical errors have escaped detection; entire freedom from such is hardly to be expected, but the short table of errata will, I feel confident, comprise the greater part; for all other shortcomings I must seek the indulgence of my readers, trusting that my humble efforts may have provided for them in the words of my title "A clue of elucidation to the intricate passages of the Kor-an."

THE KOR-ÂN.

A prefixed particle answering to the Latin num or an, Whether? Is it? When the first of two consecutive propositions begins with 1, and the second with , both may frequently be taken in a dubitative sense; as أَنْذُرْتُهُمْ أَمْ v. 5, "Whether thou warn them, or whether thou warn them not;" is often found prefixed to other particles, as, أَيْنَكُ "Art thou verily?" أَنْبِنَعْمَةُ ٱللَّهِ بَجْعَدُونَ "! Art thou verily 16 v. 73, "Do they then deny the beneficence of God?" When this particle is followed by another one of them is generally omitted; as آنتَ for آنتَ so likewise when followed by Wesla, in which case the alif of union is suppressed, as all for all, etc. D. Even to, up to, down to, as far as, until, in order that; This particle is used in four different ways.

1st. It is used as a preposition to indicate a certain term, and when thus employed governs the genitive case, as مَثْنَى مَطْلَعِ ٱلْفَجْرِي 97 v. 5, "Until the time of the rising of the dawn."

2ndly. As a conjunction or adverb, meaning "and even," or "up to an extreme point inclusive;" thus it differs from إِلَى, which signifies "Up to," or "As far as, but not including;" Ex. أَنْمَا مَا السَّمَكَةُ حَتَّى رَأْسَهَا.

mean "as far as the head, and no further:" مَجَرُ No instance of this use of حَتَّى occurs in the Koran.

3rdly. As a conjunction serving to connect a proposition with that which precedes it; it then means "until," and has grammatically no effect on the succeeding proposition; thus at 6 v. 149, كَذَٰلِكُ كَذَّبَ ٱلَّذِينَ مِنْ قَبْلِهِمْ حَتَّى ذَاتُوا بَالْسَنَا "In like manner did they who went before them accuse (the prophets) of falsehood, until they tasted our severity." Note. In the Koran it is frequently followed by اَذَا ; D. S. Gr. T. 1, pp. 175 and 202, note.

Lastly. and إِنَّ see إِنَّ and لَوْ If; for the difference between لَوْ when immediately followed by a noun the particle interposed as at 7 v. 94, D. S. at the كَوْ at the كَوْ at the head of a sentence we have sometimes an ellipse of the correlative proposition called by an instance occurs , جَوَابُ آلشَّرُط at 21 v. 40, where the sense may be well rendered in English by a similar ellipse, "If they did but know the time," etc. وَكُوّ Although. .11 v. 93 لَوْلا رَهْطُكُ لَرَجَمْنَاكُ Unless, as لَوَلا "Had it not (been for) thy family surely we had stoned thee;" in this as in numerous other instances the predicate is understood, indeed this ellipse is customary in all cases where no confusion is likely to arise in consequence; sometimes also there is an ellipse of the correlative proposition, as for example at 24 v. 10, where we may understand the word Verily he would have exposed your '' لَفَصَعَكُمْ wickedness;" another instance may be found وَطِيرً at 48 v. 25, see وَطِيرً

is also used as a particle of instigation or reprimand, being followed in the former case by a verb in the aorist, and in the latter by the preterite; in this sense it is usually translated Will ye not? or have they not? etc. Ex. لَوْلاَ تَسْتَغْفِرُونَ ٱللَّهُ لَعَلَّكُمْ تُرْحَمُونَ 27 v. 47, "Will ye not ask pardon of God, perhaps ye might be graciously accepted." This and many similar passages could be easily explained by an ellipse, still retaining for الراً its original meaning of unless; but the grammarians and commentators prefer the

aor. o. To give a reply which was not called for. it is not; grammarians are not agreed on the subject of this word, according to some it is an indeclinable verb, whilst others consider it as a kind of feminine form of the adverb i; D. S. Gr. T. 1, p. 262.

aor. o. To appear (a star); to cause one to change colour. آلُواَح Plur. آلُواَح n.a. A broad table or plank. كُوَّاحُ verbal adjective of intensity, D. S. Gr. T. 1, p. 322, Darkening the colour (with j of pers.).

NINETYNINE NAMES OF ALLAH

By: Muhammad Iqbal Siddiqui

We all praise and solicit His blessings. Allah is the only One God. "Allah" is a proper noun par excellence in a consolidated from. No plural can be formed out of it nor any derivation is possible. It connotes the attributes of Perfection and Beauty. Allah is the name of the Divine One, as distinguished from all other attributive names called Asma-ul-Husna, the most excellent names. His ninety-nine attributes are not only individually complete but perfect in their harmony. They blend as the hue of the rainbow.

Brief notes on Asma-ul-Husna given in this book are aimed at explaining to the faithful the meaning and significance of individual attributes. This book on the subject is indeed a remarkable work in English.

WOMEN IN ISLAM

M.Mazheruddin. Siddiqui

The position of women under Islam has been the subject of repeated controversy among educated Muslims ever since they came under the impact of Western civilisation.

In this book the author has ably tried to show how Islamic injunction in regard to the regulation of sex and family life can be adapted to modern conditions without departing from the principles underlying them.
